

##. Brethren, Called By One Vocation

Carl Johann Philipp Spitta, 1833
Tr., Richard Massie, †1887

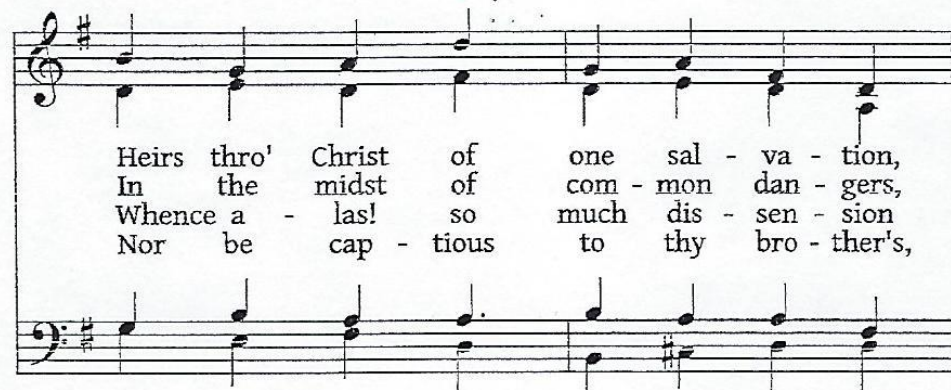

Komm, o komm, du Geist
Johann Christoph Bach, 1693

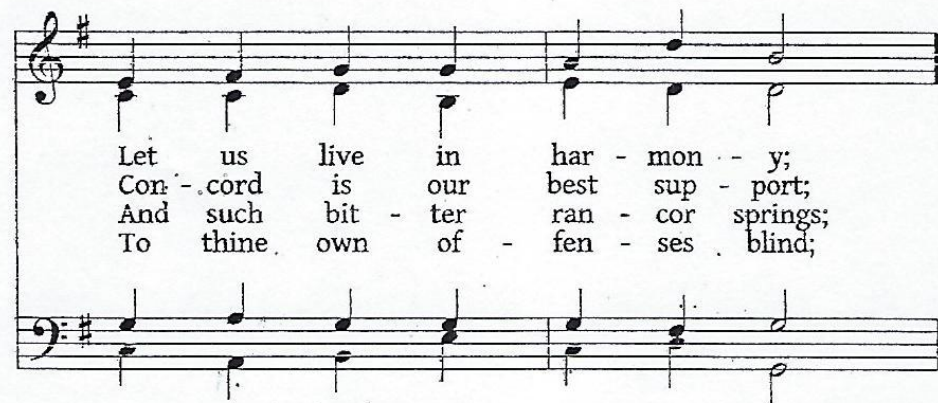

1. Breth - ren, called by one vo - ca - tion,
2. In a land where all are stran - gers,
3. Let us shun all vain con - ten - tion
4. Judge not hast - i - ly of oth - ers,

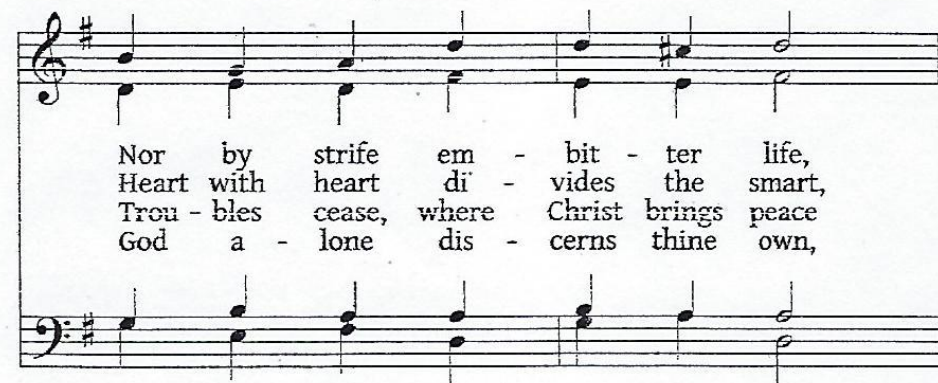

Mem - bers of one fam - i - ly,
And our so - journ - ing so short,
Touch - ing words and out - ward things,
But thine own sal - va - tion mind;

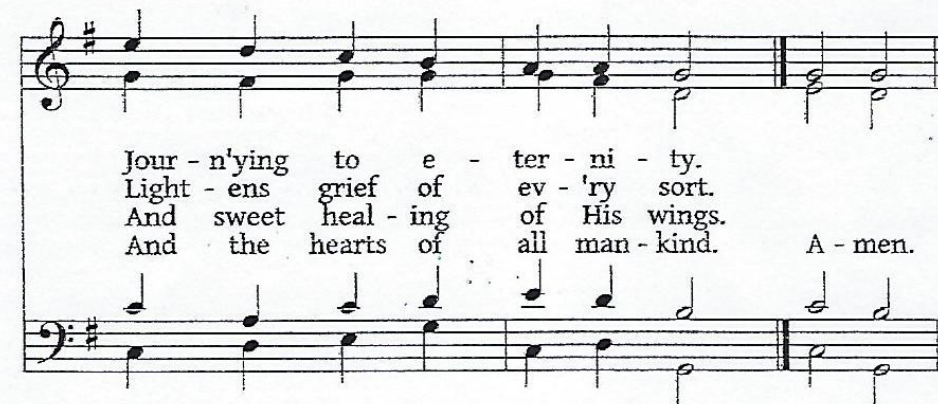

Heirs thro' Christ of one sal - va - tion,
In the midst of com - mon dan - gers,
Whence a - las! so much dis - sen - sion
Nor be cap - tious to thy bro - ther's,

Let us live in har - mon - y;
Con - cord is our best sup - port;
And such bit - ter ran - cor springs;
To thine own of - fen - ses blind;

Nor by strife em - bit - ter life,
Heart with heart di - vides the smart,
Trou - bles cease, where Christ brings peace
God a - lone dis - cerns thine own,

Jour - n'ying to e - ter - ni - ty.
Light - ens grief of ev - 'ry sort.
And sweet heal - ing of His wings.
And the hearts of all man - kind. A - men.

5. Let it be our chief endeavor,
That we may the Lord obey,
Then shall envy ease forever,
And all hate be done away;
Free from strife shall be his life
Who serves God both night and day!
